WOMAN LEAPS BEFORE FAST EXPRESS TRAIN

Ground to Pieces Before the Brakes Could Be Applied

MANY SAW HER ACT

She Waited at the Bushwick Station Until Cars Were Only Ten Feet Away.

NO CHANCE TO SAVE HER.

Woman Believed from Articles Found After Death to Be Mrs. Susan Hanrahan.

A woman, supposed to have been Mrs. Susan Hanrahan, of No. 500 Monroe street, Brooklyn, threw herself in front of a Long Island Railroad express train at the Bushwick station, in Brooklyn, this afternoon and was ground to pieces. She was about forty-two years old, well dressed and had $11.80 and some keys in a shopping-bag she carried.

The woman walked up and down the platform for almost an hour before the express train came along. It was bound for Sheepshead Bay and was crowded with commuters. Eugene Salzman, the engineer, and seeing no signal at the Bushwick station notifying him to stop, he put on full speed.

Threw Herself on Track.

The locomotive was not ten feet from the woman when she rushed to the edge of the platform and threw herself across the track. The train ran seventy-five feet before Salzman could stop it.

Policeman Charles Whitely, of the Hamburg Avenue Station, took charge of the removal of the woman's body from beneath the cars. She was shockingly mangled, her left hand under which there was a ring being found at some distance from the track.

This ring and a newspaper clipping found in the shopping bag which the woman dropped as she leaped furnished the clue to her identity. The ring had on the inside this inscription: "T. J. H. to S. G. S. April 2, 1884."

The clipping was from a newspaper printed in 1897. It contained a recital of an action brought through the Charity Commissioners of Brooklyn by Susan Hanrahan, of No. 500 Monroe street, against her husband, T. J. Hanrahan, for non-support. In the story was the statement that Mrs. Hanrahan's maiden name was Susan Smith, and that she had lived at No. 208A Pacific street. The marriage ceremony was performed by Father Land, of the Church of the Presentation.

Search for Her Friends.

Taking the initials on the ring in connection with the story set forth in the newspaper clipping, the police came to the conclusion that the suicide was Susan Hanrahan. A message was sent from the Hamburg Avenue Station to Headquarters, and detectives were sent out to discover if the assumption was true.

The accident blocked the suburban traffic on the Long Island Railroad for nearly an hour. Engineer Salzman was placed under arrest as a matter of fact, witnesses being in plenty to testify that he could not have avoided the accident.

The station agent says that the woman allowed several trains to pass before she leaped in front of the express. Although her action in loitering about the station was unusual, there was nothing peculiar about it, and the agent supposed that she was waiting for somebody.

An Evening World reporter went to the house at No. 500 Monroe street late this afternoon and found it locked. No one could be discovered in the neighborhood who could tell anything about Susan Hanrahan.

MAN HUNT ON BROADWAY.

The Crowd of Promenaders on the "Great White Way" Sees an Exciting Chase After an Alleged Swindler.

William McDougal, who professes to be an advertising agent, of No. 608 Sixth avenue, was arrested this afternoon after one of the most exciting man hunts Broadway has seen in many a day. He is charged with attempting to swindle a Newark grocer by means of the wire-tapping game with a new twist.

The victim was Espirito Lopez, the keeper of a grocery store at No. 503 Walden street, Newark. He was standing in his store this afternoon when an elderly man entered and, after some conversation, invited him to take a trip to this city. Upon reaching here the two went to the Casino cafe, at Broadway and Thirty-ninth street.

There the elderly man introduced Lopez to McDougal, who poured into Lopez's ear a tale of woe. He told him that he had a wife and five children

BATTLE AT 158 POUNDS.

If O'Brien Is Unwilling to Accept the Terms Fitz Will Meet Tommy Ryan.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 21.—Bob Fitzsimmons, the light-heavy-weight champion of the world, who appeared here this week with his theatrical company, announced to-day that he had accepted the challenge issued by Philadelphia Jack O'Brien to fight him and that he would immediately send a certified check for $5,000 to Al. Smith in New York, to bind the match, providing O'Brien was willing to fight him at 158 pounds, weight in at the ring-side the middle-weight limit.

Fitz said that if O'Brien did not accept he would fight Tommy Ryan under the same conditions.

Fitzsimmons demands that whoever one of these fighters is willing to fight him shall cover his forfeit of $5,000. This will have to go as a side bet on the result of the fight. Another condition is that the winner of the contest shall take all the money.

The battle is to be for twenty rounds and will be decided before the club in San Francisco that will offer the largest purse.

MAN AND WOMAN DIE TOGETHER

William Madden and Sadie Barth Found Suffocated by Gas in a Hotel at Flatbush, L. I.

William Madden, thirty years of age, of Twelfth street, College Point, and Sadie Barth, twenty-six years of age, of 1091 First avenue, Manhattan, were found dead in a bed in the Flushing Hotel, Flushing, L. I., this afternoon. Their deaths had been caused by gas, which was pouring from several unlighted jets in a gas range in the room. They had been dead several hours.

The couple went to the hotel at 10.20 o'clock last night. Madden registered as John Grunwaldt, of Brooklyn. They were assigned to a room, and that was the last seen of them alive.

This afternoon about 4 o'clock the proprietor detected a strong odor of gas, and he traced it to the room in which the couple were. He summoned the police and when they arrived the door was broken in and the couple found lying dead on the bed. The room was filled with gas. A gas jet in the room was lighted and there was a gas range which was partly lighted. There were several jets in the room, however, and from a number of these the gas was poured into the room. A doctor was summoned, but he said the couple had been dead several hours.

The woman was good looking. She was well dressed, and there was a good deal of jewelry on her. She was found lying on her back, with her arms crossed over her head. The man was lying on his side, facing the woman. He was wearing a dark suit and a white shirt. His hands were clasped over his chest.

Lopez said that he had no money with him, whereupon McDougal suggested that he pawn the diamond rings he wore.

"Benign will surely win the first race," said McDougal.

They went to a pawnshop where Lopez got $300 on the rings and handed it over to McDougal, he says. The latter then took Lopez and the elderly man to a cigar store on West Thirty-fourth street. He went into a back room and presently came out crying.

"It went wrong, Benign didn't win." With that he bolted up Broadway to Thirty-eighth street, where, with Lopez in hot pursuit, he turned east to Sixth avenue. Down Sixth avenue to Thirty-fifth street they ran, and through that street west to Broadway.

By this time a crowd of 300 men had taken up the chase.

McDougal reached Broadway Mounted Policeman Goldhammer started after him. McDougal ran as far as Thirty-eighth street, where he dashed into a building and rushed upstairs to the roof. Three policemen were by his side at the time.

(Special to The Evening World.)

ESSEX PARK, HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 21.—Fair weather continues here and the track is slowly drying out, but is not fast. The going to-day was slow on the outside, but heavy and lumpy on the rail.

The card was dignified by the Eastern Hotel Stakes. Bill Curtis, owned by Griffin and Canteen, owned by Yeager, had to be coupled in the betting, as the Western rules require that all horses trained by the same man must be coupled in the betting.

The attendance was very good to-day and the books did a rushing business. Judge Murphy had caused to be printed and posted about the grounds notices to the effect that any owner, trainer, jockey or bookmaker, or any one enjoying privileges from the association must not make charges of fraud without being able to substantiate them.

Criticism by the press is welcomed and its judges will investigate any race at the request of an interested person. Intemperate charges of fraud will not be tolerated. The person offending will be ruled off.

Mint Boy Wins by Neck.

Belden was played in opening dash as it was all over. He was backed from 8 to 5 to 4 to 5, while Mint Boy went from 7 to 10 to 6 to 5. Mint Boy won by a bit of early speed and making him played in front of the race.

Bendigo Beats Hagamans.

Fergus was a hot favorite in the second race, but gathered nothing. He showed a bit of early speed and then stopped. Hagamans, who had raced with him for the first quarter, then took the lead but was outrun by Bendigo, who played in front of the race, winning by a neck from Hagamans, who beat Maceona two lengths for the place.

Wild Irishman Just Galloped.

Wild Irishman, favorite in the third race, went to the front at the start and made pace with Van Ness and Peggy. Van Ness got to Wild Irishman on the turn, but the latter drew clear again and at the end won easily by three lengths from Van Ness, who beat Rubric by a length.

Canteen Wins in Hard Drive.

Judge Himas was the favorite in the Eastern Hotel Stakes. Bill Curtis was heavily played. Canteen went to the front and made pace, while Bill Curtis laid second for half a mile, when he suddenly stopped. Never Such then moved up after Canteen and closed on her in the stretch. In a hard drive to the finish Canteen won by a head from Never Such, who was eight lengths in front of Judge Himas.
